

Renata R. Lyons, Ph.D.

| 832.433.2067 | renatafrusso@gmail.com

Summary

Motivated, energetic, and driven Instructor skilled in face to face and online teaching, student advising, and working with a diverse group of faculty, staff and students. Demonstrated experience in providing exemplary student and faculty support to achieve institutional standards and benchmarks. Skilled in coaching, facilitation, program management, student retention as well as online course management systems. Proven organizational and planning expertise with an ability to work with minimal supervision. Technically savvy and known for an enthusiastic approach with extensive experience working within remote and flexible environments.

Online Teaching | Student Advising | Instructional Design | Program Diversity | Program Management |
Training and Development | Retention | Detail Oriented | Organized | Curriculum Design | Resourceful |
Problem Solving | Strong Time and Task Management
Multilingual (English, Portuguese, and Spanish) | Written and Verbal Communication

Education

PhD, Educational Administration and Human Resource Development – Adult Education
Texas A&M University College Station, TX

Certificate in College Teaching
Texas A&M University College Station, TX

MAT with Internet Technologies
Marlboro College Marlboro, VT

Master of Science (MS), Education in ESL
Radford University Radford, VA

Bachelor of Arts (BA), English Language and Literature
Pontificia University, Catoli [®] < Coach online graduate level courses for Louisiana State University Master's in Leadership
Human Resource Development.

Collaborate with LSU Faculty to assist with course design, grading, and advising diverse group of students within the program.

Advise and provide online academic support, program information, resources, and other assistance keeping student engagement level high.

Monitor online discussion threads posted throughout seven week

ó í t W CE (Ç CE u• v v lo Ç •]•]v , Z

