Course Description & Objectives

Never before has the world been more interconnected than at the threshold of the 21st century. As such, knowing the politics of other countries is necessary to deal with other countries intelligently, as well as serve as a mirror to understand our own politics.

This class aims to draw a deeper understanding of the historical, cultural, and political contexts that shape contemporary politics around the world. This course, then, will introduce students to concepts, ideas, and theories in the field of comparative politics, and their application and practice in the real world. The class consists of two parts: the first part explores abstract themes and generalizable topics within the field. The second part comprises case studies of six countries, demonstrating how to apply the concepts, ideas and theories learned in the first part.

Required Textbook:

Sodaro, Michael J. 2007. Comparative Politics: A Global Introduction, 3rd

- Final Exam - The course will have a comprehensive final exam. The final exam will be worth 30% of your overall grade.

Assignment Policy

The instructor reserves the right to change the listed assignments. Students will receive a revised syllabus if the listing of course assignments changes.

Attendance Policy

Class attendance is the responsibility of the student, and each student is expected to attend all classes. Any student who finds it necessary to miss class assumes responsibility for making up examinations, obtaining lecture notes, and otherwise compensating for what the student may have missed from class. The instructor will determine the validity of a student's reason(s) for any absences and will assist those students who have valid reasons and documentation.

Valid documentable reasons for absences include:

1. Illness
2. Serious family emergency
3. Special curricular requirements such as judging trips or field trips
4. Court-imposed legal obligations such as subpoenas or jury duty
5. Military obligations
6. Serious weather conditions
7. Religious observances

Disability Code

The Office of Disability Services assists students in identifying and developing accommodations and services to help overcome barriers to the achievement of personal and academic goals. Services are available for students with temporary or permanent disabilities. Accommodations and services are based on the individual student's disability-based need. Students must provide current documentation of their disabilities. Students should contact the office early to arrange the necessary accommodations. ~ LSU General Catalog

Late Work

Please avoid turning in late work. I realize life happens and that you may not always be able to submit your work on time. I will accept one unexcused late assignment at a deduction of 10% for each day it is late. Any additional unexcused late assignments will receive a deduction of 20% for each day they are late. An assignment is late when an assignment is not available, or incomplete, on the date it is due.

Academic Integrity

The following is the Louisiana State University's official statement on academic integrity: "Academic misconduct includes but is not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, collusion, falsifying academic records, and any act designed to give an unfair academic advantage to the student..." (Sec. 5.1, C. of the LSU Code of Student Conduct).

Plagiarism and Citation Method

As a student at LSU, your responsibility is to refrain from plagiarizing another's academic property. To this end, you must utilize an appropriate citation method for all coursework. Ignorance of a citation method is no excuse for academic misconduct. One tool available to assist you in correct citations is the references function in Microsoft Word. This program automatically formats the information you input according to the citation method you select for the document. This program also has the ability to generate a reference or works cited page for the information
