Introduction

The purpose of this course is to introduce graduate students to the theory, method, and practice of regression analysis and its many variants. Regression analysis is the principle method of empirical inquiry in the social sciences. It is a powerful tool fo

Course Requirements and Evaluation

Each student will be evaluated on the basis of the following:

|                      |     |
|----------------------|-----|
| Midterm Examination  | 100 |
| Final Examination    | 100 |
| Short research paper | 100 |
| Total                | 300 |

1. Midterm Examination A comprehensive midterm examination covering all material from the first half of the course will be required for all students. Information pertaining to the format of the midterm examination will be provided to all students prior to the exam.
2. Final Examination A comprehensive final examination covering all material from the second half of the course will be required for all students. Information pertaining to the format of the final examination will be provided to all students prior to the exam.
3. Short Research Paper In addition to the midterm and final exams, each student will be required to write a short research paper that utilizes OLS regression analysis. More detailed information about the paper will be provided later in the semester.

The grading scale for the course is as follows:

|    |               |
|----|---------------|
| A+ | 97.5% - 100%  |

Academic Misconduct Statement

Academic misconduct is defined by the Code of Student Conduct. You are encouraged to familiarize yourself with the LSU policy on academic misconduct, particularly regarding plagiarism. The LSU Code of Student Conduct can be found on the web site for the LSU Dean of Students:

<https://www.lsu.edu/saa/students/codeofconduct.php>

Please read the section labelled "10.0 Misconduct." Academic misconduct is a serious violation of university policy, but more importantly it is a significant scholarly violation for political scientists. Plagiarism and other fo
