The course emphasizes a trans-national approach to sexuality, race and power relations in the era of modern imperialism.

Asiya Alam M 3:00pm-5:50pm

Students will learn about biological, psychological, and social issues that disproportionately impact girls' and women's mental health across the lifespan. Students will gain skills tailored to the unique counseling needs of girls and women.

Laura Choate W 12:30pm 3:20pm

This course explores how authors, poets, artists, filmmakers, tradition bearers, and folklorists use creative expression to represent gender, sexuality, and culture. We will come across differences of ethnicity, class, region, age, language, race, society, and nation in how authors, artists, and performers negotiate the concepts of gender and sexuality in their work. Folklore, as narrative, material culture, and social practices, will also illuminate how gendered spaces, languages, and experiences provide a unique way of expressing the everyday. Lastly, the range in nationality and ethnicity of the communities explored in the course allows us to question the parameters of the notion of gender in terms of its difference and stability worldwide.

This course aims to encourage and support students in their development as engaged and caring teachers in a multicultural society; to challenge their ideas of what multicultural education is and should be; and to give them concrete strategies to use in making their classrooms places where students from all cultures feel welcomed and valued. The course will encourage students to think critically and help engender critical thinking in their own K-12 students.
