

The key link between physics and life is provided by bio-molecules, such as voltage gated ion channels. Through their structure they enable logic to emerge from the underlying

